

"The essence of our approach is to reduce the problem from an issue of principle to a practice of problem-solving. This is because, in the final analysis, there is a higher principle at stake: the political unity of the democratic nations. That unity, as I said earlier, is the key to our common security, freedom and prosperity. The system of law that we and our allies so cherish, and the free economic system that so nourishes us, are under severe challenge from adversaries who would impose their own system by brute force. If the free nations do not stand solidly together on the fundamental issues, we all risk losing much that is precious - far more precious than the subject matter of any particular dispute."

PUBLICATIONS NOTED

James P. Cairns, Predatory Pricing: Notes on Hoffman-La Roche, Canadian Business Law Journal, Vol. 9, No. 2, 1984. Examines the court's approach to "unreasonably low" under s. 34(1)(c) of the Combines Investigation Act in R. v. Hoffman-La Roche (1980) 48 C.P.R. (2d)145.

John H. Shenefield, Thoughts on Extraterritorial Application of the United States Antitrust Laws, Fordham Law Review, Vol. LII, No. 3, Dec. 1983. This article by a former U.S. assistant attorney general in charge of antitrust contains many useful suggestings for reducing the tensions flowing from extraterritoriality.

ERRATA IN THE JUNE ISSUE

Apologies are offered to L.A. Skeoch and to S.D. Khosla and R.D. Anderson for the following misprints which appeared in their articles in the June, 1984 issue of Canadian Competition Policy Record:

Page 4, third complete paragraph: "Comparative statistics" should be "comparative statics".

Page 5, second paragraph: "attempts to pre-exempt" should be "attempts to pre-empt".

Page 15, second paragraph: "such as the U.S., Australia" should be "such as the U.K., Australia".
