

AN ENCOURAGING RESPONSE

Thanks are extended to those who have expressed their support of the Record by their prompt subscriptions and helpful comments. The response to the first number indicates that there exists in Canada a solid if small base for a publication of this kind.

Most of the comments received have been positive and have included a number of constructive suggestions to serve the interests and needs of readers. The provision of periodic indexes has been proposed, and the first one will probably be issued after about two years of publication.

The inclusion of contributed articles has been suggested. While an honorarium cannot be offered at this time, readers are cordially invited to submit pieces which are concise and relevant to the subject covered by the Record. Without limiting the range, examples might be analyses of judgments or of the implications of legislative proposals whether from a legal or economic viewpoint. In addition, copies of briefs or submissions reflecting the views of interest groups would be gratefully received for possible publication in summary form.

Readers are urged to continue communicating to the editor their comments and suggestions.
